

GOOD FORM—SHOULD HUSBANDS BE TIED TO WIVES' APRON STRINGS?—HEALTH TALKS

INVITE ME, INVITE MY SPOUSE, AMERICAN SLOGAN, SAYS M'LISS

Noah's Ark Procession Continues Down the Ages and Husbands and Wives, Two by Two, Attend Social Functions

LOVE me, love my dog," is a maxim which, according to advanced writers, is in a fair way of having a companion piece in "invite me, invite my wife."

American society, the accusation has been made, falls in all the charm and interest that characterizes the society of Paris, London, Vienna and Rome, because of the necessity the American hostess feels to invite husband and wife to the same function.

You are a musician. In the course of developing your talent you have built up an acquaintanceship of men and women with similar interests. You talk in terms of Beethoven and Liszt. You refer to Bach and Brahms. You are a stock broker who can conceive of no more interesting reading than that offered by the financial press of the newspapers and no sweeter music than that of the stock ticker in his office.

When he diverts at all he likes a game of chess or bridge. His musical taste is satisfied with "The Tales of Hoffmann" or "Oh, You Dangerous Girl." He is frankly bored with your "set," which he dubs "high-brow," and yet because of the American custom he must, perforce, be included in all your invitations and you in his. If he does not go with you, people will talk. It marks the decline and fall in an American man's affections for his wife when he ceases to escort her to the various functions to which they are invited. He is open to the charge of neglecting her.

He may be an athlete and she may detest muscular exercise with an unreasoning hate, and yet he cannot take another woman out to the golf links or the tennis court without providing food for gossip's avaricious mouth and offering insult to his wife, according to the world's point of view.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR OF THE WOMAN'S PAGE

Address all communications to M'Liss, care of the Evening Ledger. Write on one side of the paper only.

Dear M'Liss—Will you kindly publish in your paper the copy and how long will it take me to go from Philadelphia to Erie, Pa. by train and train? Through what interesting cities and towns must I pass? Sincerely yours, M'Liss.

You can go to Erie by train for $10.50 one way. It takes 12 hours.

It is not possible to go by trolley any further than from Philadelphia to Lancaster.

MARION HARLAND'S CORNER

Stain on Crepe Waist. The blue stain lining of my coat has faded into a white gauzy crepe waist. A dry cleaner told me nothing can be done to restore the stain. However, I have faith in you and the consistency of the H. H. C. Surely such faith will not go unrewarded. Is there anything one can do to prevent the stain from fading out? Please advise. Have you any stain remover for crepe waist? It is delicious. I can recommend it highly. The half cup of lard, quarter cup of boiling water and one-half cup of flour, half teaspoon of baking powder, one-half cup of water, stir in flour and baking powder. The product possesses the ordinary crepe waist stain remover.

The fading of the blue is really the washing of the color into the adjoining portions of the garment through the agency of perspiration. There is nothing which is more likely to remove the stain wrought by perspiration than white wine vinegar—the genuine article. An inferior quality or an imitation will not do. The white and blue should be properly protected from perspiration by rubber dress shields. The "peccart" is most welcome. I will recollect that a veteran housemother of the middle 50s renowned for her pastry maintained that it owed its excellence to her practice of mixing it with boiling water. I used to hear her neighbors nothing short of a culinary scientist. But it was fine.

Helping an Invalid. Mrs. E. W., a student, asks for pieces for quilting. Will you kindly send me her address? I am sleeping in the midst of a multitude of pillows to make me rest. My mother is very ill. How peacefully you must rest at night, considering the noise and bustle around during the day! God bless the Corner and keep you in the great world. NANCY H. N.

The address to you by the next mail. Thanks are yours in full measure for putting aside your own occupations to supply the wants of our members. May I reiterate here the best prescription I know of for coaxing sleep? My mother taught it to me as a part of my evening prayer:

"Did I, this day, for small or great My own pursuits forego To lighten by a feather's weight The mass of human woe?"

When one can truthfully reply "Yes" to conscience, peaceful slumber should follow. I know I have quoted the little rhyme before in the Corner. It may not be amiss to remind ourselves of it. You have evidently carried the lesson in your heart and put in into daily practice.

Silk Pieces for Patchwork. Please send me your directions for making silk pieces for patchwork. I would like to be glad to receive an immediate reply. If you have any more questions, please send me the address and I will forward some to her. If she will send some, she will be glad to do so. EDITH H. N.

Taking the last paragraph of your letter first, you will receive in due season the names of women desiring silk pieces for patchwork. Like the poor, we have them ever with us. Hold the pieces until they learn of your generosity. We offer two recipes for strawberry ice cream. If the result is not as bright in color as some you buy from confectioners, comfort yourself by the supposition that they owe the pink to a dash of cochineal—quite harmless, we are assured.

Crushed strawberry ice cream—Make a rich custard with strawberries. Add milk; stir into it a quart of rich cream, turn into a freezer and grind until half frozen. Have ready a quart of strawberries, mashed and abundantly sweetened. When the ice cream has become solid, carefully remove the top from the freezer and with a long spoon beat in the crushed berries, stirring up the contents from the bottom. Replace the top and continue to grind until frozen.

Strawberry mousses—Whip a pint of thick cream stiff and stir into it a cup of crushed berries which have been sweetened abundantly and from which all the juice has been drained. Mold and pack in ice and salt for four hours. When ready to serve, garnish with whole strawberries.

Pleased With His Gift. I asked you some time ago for several new recipes. You have responded and I am very pleased with the results. The recipe for the "set" which you have given me is just what I needed. I will gladly acknowledge your kindness. The "set" is a great pleasure to the set. EDITH H. N.

The Corner is a firm believer in kind hearts. In the time of the year, the best of us are given out of sympathy and kindness and action. For instance, the

ARTIST'S SMOCK INVADERS TENNIS COURT

THE smock, which came in as a novelty, has through its attractiveness and serviceability won a permanent place in not only the wardrobes but in the tennis court. The one featured is representative of quite a variety which one of the shops has. They come in crepe de chine, pongee, chambray and dimity, trimmed in contrasting colors in plain and striped effects and are to be had in a variety of styles. The prices range from $2.95 to $10.75.

The hat, which is distinctive, makes a charming mountain or seashore hat, or may be considered for those who stay at home. It is a mushroom shape with an orchid chentle top and white satin facing and cord edge. The crown is embroidered in chentle in Egyptian colors in lined effect. That hat may be ordered in sky, lemon, watermelon or orchid color for $12.50.

The name of the shop where these articles may be purchased will be supplied by the Editor of the Woman's Page, EVENING LEDGER, 408 Chestnut street. The request must be accompanied by a stamped self-addressed envelope, and must mention the date on which the article appeared.

GOOD FORM

Good form queries should be addressed to Deborah Rush, writer on one side of the paper and signed with full name and address, though initials ONLY will be published upon request. This column will appear on Monday's, Wednesday's and Friday's Evening Ledger.

Proper Use of Table Silver. Dear Deborah Rush—A friend asks me how to hold a spoon and a fork when eating? Also how should a diner hold a knife? DEBORAH RUSH.

A spoon should always be held in the right hand and the food should be eaten from the side. Never place the point of the spoon to your mouth, it is very bad form and looks very awkward. The fork should be held with the prongs down when cutting meat. The side may be used for separating salad leaves and such food, which does not have to be cut.

The fingers should be dipped in the water and gently rinsed. They may be lightly passed over the lips and still wet and, of course, both fingers and lips should be dried on a napkin.

Bridal Party at Reception. Dear Deborah Rush—At a wedding reception to which only the bride party was invited, should the bride party be asked back to the ceremony? If there is no going to the ceremony? YES.

Yes, it is always customary to include all the members of the bride party in the invitation to return to the house after the ceremony, even if no refreshments other than cake and lemonade are served. DEBORAH RUSH.

Memory. O Memory, thou fond deceiver, Still opportunely and vain, To former joys recurring ever, And turning all the past to pain!

Thou, like the world, th' oppress'd oppress; Thy smiles increase the wretch's woe; And he who wants each other blessing In thee must ever find a foe. —Oliver Goldsmith.

"GREEN CHEESE" MOON TONIGHT. Various Hues Will Appear During Eclipse, According to Prof. Doolittle, of U. of P.

The moon will pass through the earth's shadow tonight and will taken on hues ranging from a copper color to possibly an emerald green, according to Professor Eric Doolittle, head of the University of Pennsylvania department of astronomy.

The hours of eclipse will be from 11 minutes and 18 seconds after 10 o'clock until 12 and 18 seconds after 10 o'clock tomorrow morning. The deepest shadow will be recorded at 45 minutes and 54 seconds after 11 o'clock.

The reasons for the various hues which will appear tonight, and incidentally, the origin of the statement that the "moon is made of green cheese" is that rays of sunlight, passing through the earth's atmosphere are bent so that they strike on the darkened surface of the moon, giving the weird light effects.

Another eclipse is due this month, but no one in this part of the world will see it. It will come on July 29, when the moon will be directly before the face of the sun. Astronomers and Transmanians will get a good view of it.

MRS. LUCY L. W. WILSON ON SCIENTIFIC MISSION IN NEW MEXICO DESERT

Daring Work Undertaken by Head of Girls' High School Downtown—Conducts Indian Excavations

MANY HARDSHIPS BRAVED

Mrs. Lucy L. W. Wilson, principal of the South Philadelphia High School for Girls, is in New Mexico to conduct excavations at Otowi and reveal the secrets of the race which inhabited the country a thousand years before the arrival of the Spaniards. With Mexicans surrounding her on all sides, her assistants full-blooded Indians and no white man in the vicinity, Mrs. Wilson has undertaken what her friends say is one of the most daring expeditions ever attempted by a woman.

The nearest Indian village to the center of her activities is 12 miles away. To reach that village she will have to traverse almost impassable country, and the nearest water supply is four miles from her camp. Mrs. Wilson will continue her scientific work, begun there in 1914, when she made important discoveries relating to the history of the Pueblo and cliff-dwelling Indians. The benefit of her research will accrue to the Commercial Museum, of which her husband, Dr. W. P. Wilson, is curator.

The expedition has the sanction of the United States Government, but whatever she finds will be given to the Museum. In 1914 a survey of the country, covering six acres, was made as a preliminary to Mrs. Wilson's present undertaking. Mrs. Wilson is living in a tent. She is a robust woman, used to the hardships of such a life. She has built a ditch around her dwelling to prevent a flood that might result from the torrential rains common to that country. Burros are being used to bring water to her camp.

"The life is a rough one," her husband said today, "but the compensation is more than attractive. The possibility of disclosing to civilization the history of the people who inhabited the North American Continent before the time of Columbus is claiming the attention of scientists in that field of work."

Mrs. Wilson was elected to the principalship of the South Philadelphia High School for Girls about a year ago, after a long and hard fight on the part of her supporters in the Board of Education.

Butter Rolls

Sift a quart of flour, a half-teaspoonful of salt and two tablespoonfuls of baking powder together. Run in a tablespoonful of cold butter, a beaten egg and a pint of milk. Mix as soft as possible. Roll out a half inch in thickness and cut in rounds with the biscuit cutter. Brush with melted butter, fold one third of each edge over the other, press down to make it stay in place and bake in a quick oven from 12 to 15 minutes.

Tastes Like Hollandaise

Melt 2 tablespoonfuls of butter, blending in 2 tablespoonfuls of flour, and when quite smooth, add half a cupful of milk, salt, pepper and a bit of cayenne. Bring the mixture to the boiling point. Stir in the yolks of 2 eggs, a half cupful of butter, bit by bit, and 2 tablespoonfuls of lemon juice.

When You Iron

The next time you pad your ironing board put someorris root between the layers of cloth. Why the clothes are ironed on this it gives a delightful fragrance to them.

Luscious Frosting

A scant teaspoonful of hotted vinegar beaten into boiled frosting when the flavoring is being added will keep it from getting brittle and cracking when the cake is cut. It will be as moist and nice in a week as the day it was made.

Resinol Soap

does far more than remove the dirt

Any soap will clean your skin—a bar of laundry soap will do if you do not care what becomes of your complexion. But you know that laundry soap usually contains harsh, drying alkali that would ruin your skin and hair, so you never think of using it for your toilet.

Poorly made toilet soaps contain this same injurious chemical. Resinol Soap has absolutely no free alkali, while to it is added the Resinol medication, which physicians prescribe regularly for skin affections. This gives it soothing, healing properties which improve the complexion, protect tender skins from irritations, and keep the hair rich, lustrous and free from dandruff.

Resinol Soap is sold in all drug stores. For a trial size take Resinol Soap, 25¢, Resinol, Philadelphia, Pa.

Sauces You Have Eaten. There are several fundamental sauces that are used on all sorts of meats and vegetables, as well as fish. These used to be served only at hotels, but the modern housewife, with her domestic science courses, has made her own kitchen equal to the finest of restaurants. Here are the recipes for the best-known sauces: Tartare sauce—To a cupful of thick mayonnaise add a tablespoonful each of chopped capers, minced parsley, chopped olives and chopped cucumber pickles. The olives, etc., as soon as they have been chopped, should be squeezed as dry as possible. Serve with any dish that lacks flavor. Drawn butter—Rub together a tablespoonful each of butter and flour. Slowly add a cupful of boiling water, stirring all the time over the fire until it boils. Add salt and pepper to taste and add a teaspoonful of vinegar just before serving. Tartare butter is used with dry fish and meats. Cream two or three tablespoonfuls of butter, adding a teaspoonful each of chopped capers, chives and olives and of lemon juice and vinegar. Add a tablespoonful of dry mustard and one of paprika. Mix well and serve over the fish. Maitre d'hotel sauce—Cream a quarter cupful of butter. Add slowly a half-teaspoonful of salt, a tablespoonful of lemon juice and the same amount of chopped parsley. Mix well.

Norwood Country Fair Tonight. (Clepsicra, cowboys and Indians) will appear in the International Country Fair which the Country Club of Norwood will hold tonight and tomorrow night on the clubhouse grounds. Part of the proceeds will go to the club's building fund and part to the general fund. Mrs. William K. Huston is chairman of the General Committee.

Spiral Salad

Sounds futuristic, but it's good. Chill firm cucumbers from four to eight hours, and, just before serving, pare and cut them in spirals, beginning with the large end. Lay the spirals in a salad bowl on shaved ice. Serve with French dressing.
